Registration Now Open for Andrews Institute 2021 Injuries in Football Virtual Conference

GULF BREEZE, Fla. (April 13, 2021) – Registration is now open for the 15th annual Andrews Institute Injuries in Football Virtual Conference, presented by the Andrews Research & Education Foundation. The conference takes place May 5-7, 2021.

Over the course of the three-day event, attendees will hear from some of the brightest and most innovative health care professionals in sports medicine including Andrews Institute physicians James Andrews, M.D.; Steve Jordan, M.D.; Adam Anz, M.D.; along with Allen Sills, M.D., NFL chief medical officer. Topics covered will include upper extremities, lower extremities, foot/ankle and core, rehabilitation in football injuries and other trending sports medicine issues.

“The best and most innovative ways to treat football injuries are ever evolving,” Dr. Andrews said. “The speakers we’ve lined up for this year’s program are all experts in their various topics. They will be sharing techniques and insights on some of the most challenging issues we face in sports medicine. We are fortunate to find such talent and knowledge in one place.”

The conference is designed for athletic trainers, biomechanists, coaches, sports physicians, orthopaedic surgeons, physiologists, therapists and all other allied medical personnel who work with football athletes. Various courses will review current concepts of assessment, treatment, functional rehabilitation and musculoskeletal problems of the football player. The conference will also include discussions on some of the most important topics around football injuries and player safety.
